

Thanet Radio Infrastructure Group

Social Media Guidelines

We've set out a few guidelines below for using Thanet Radio Infrastructure Group (TRIG) social media including, but not limited to, comments on our website, our Facebook page, Whatsapp Groups or our Twitter profile.

There aren't many, so please have a quick read and help to make it a positive experience for everyone.

What we welcome—

Do like the page or a post, or favourite a tweet.

Share posts with your friends or retweet our tweets or comment on them.

Post success stories on Facebook, such as passing your amateur radio exams.

Encourage people to attend amateur radio events that you're involved with.

Ask questions about where to find out TRIG information, or for help from TRIG generally.

But please don't—

Use bad language.

Share any questionable material.

Insult anyone—we are all entitled to our opinions and beliefs.

Make negative comments about the group – concerns, criticisms and complaints should be raised with a committee member directly.

Remember – social media is the group's shop window to the internet, we want to encourage people to join TRIG, use our infrastructure, and become Radio Amateurs.

The committee reserves the right to delete posts or block individuals who are felt to be acting against the spirit of the above guidelines.

Whatsapp groups are available to all paid up members, the committee reserves the right to allow continued access to these groups to former members who share the group's aims.
